

YOUR LUCKY STARS

by astrologer Chris Turner

STAR PROFILE

Leonard Nimoy

LAST week Captain Kirk, this week Mr Spock — I couldn't resist!

There is only four days between them in age, Leonard also being an Aries, with the moon probably in Gemini. Their basic charts are very similar; it's their times of birth which would explain the major differences between them.

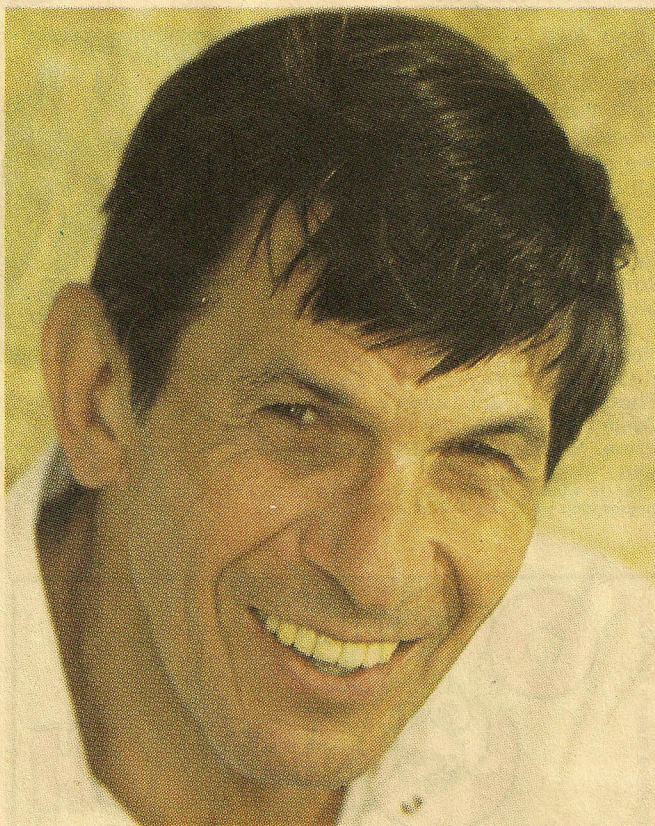

Leonard is a good foil for his more stubborn colleague, having far more ability to see another point of view, and to adapt himself.

The biggest problem with an Aries/Gemini combination is an extremely low boredom threshold. Leonard would have found it difficult to stay with a series for several years. He would have to continually find new dimensions to his character, or move on.

Hence we see him not only acting, but writing and directing as well.

Leonard will be directly affected by the Saturn/Uranus conjunction as it opposes his moon, but I don't know exactly when it will be, as I don't know the exact position without the birth time. But sometime in the next 12 to 18 months, Leonard's life is likely to do a complete turn around, and he will go off in a totally different direction.

SATURN IN CAPRICORN

SATURN is the main planet of our Solar System to astrologically describe the various cycles of our lives. It stays in a sign for about two and a half years, and takes 29 years to go right round the zodiac.

Last month it entered its own sign of Capricorn, where it will stay until June, come back into Sagittarius for five months, and then back to Capricorn again where it will stay until the beginning of 1991.

The last time Saturn was in Capricorn was from 1959-1961. If you'll remember this was a time when all the peace movements started to develop, when flower power began to make itself felt.

It was a time of very powerful influences which have affected an entire generation in a number of ways.

Politically it was a period of change in terms of political traditions. Kennedy was a radical new kind of President for the U.S. (The first Catholic, and the youngest). As Korea waned, Vietnam was a place that everyone was beginning to know about — but this was to be a different kind of war!

The time before this when Saturn was in his own sign also marked political change, as these were the years of the great depression following the Wall St crash, from 1929 to 1932.

So, can we use history to try to predict what Saturn in Capricorn is indicating for us as we approach the last decade of the century? In view of the most recent financial happenings, I would say that all the major powers need to be very careful in the way they utilise their resources.

These days, every country is too dependent on every other country, so a repetition of 1929 would certainly be felt world wide.

Political change? I think so, although it's a bit too early to tell in what way just yet, but forewarned is forearmed, and if politicians are listening to their own astrologers, they can make those changes constructive, but only if they choose to do so.

You can ring Chris Turner for your daily astrological guidelines on Telecom's Dial-A-Horoscope service. The number to ring is 11635 throughout the whole of Australia.